A place to live, work and enjoy

Special 12-page Supplement

Employees enjoying 'Port Life'

The greater Newry area is a fantastic place to work with stunning scenery, a great quality of life, lots to do, excellent educational facilities at all levels and both global and local career opportunities.

Warrenpoint Port, situated less than ten minutes' drive from Newry, is Northern Ireland's second largest Port by volume. The Port currently employs more than 70 people directly and indirectly provides more than 400 jobs across the site.

Warrenpoint Port is committed to continuously improving its employee experience by being an employer of choice and by making a valuable contribution to the local community.

Recently the team introduced 'Port Life', an initiative through which an employee-led committee and other team members will deliver a number of programmes.

These will support health and well-being, reward and recognition, community engagement and reducing impact on the environment at the Port.

In the last number of weeks, the Port has been delighted to welcome 10 casual members of the team into full-time employment. The Port is now seeking to bolster its casual pool of operatives. If you would be interested in an engaging, exciting, and challenging role but don't necessarily want to work full time this could be the opportunity for you. The Port is also currently recruiting for an Assistant Accountant to join the Port Finance team. To find out more about either of these opportunities please contact Mary on mtaylor@warrenpointharbour.co.uk

Turning up the heat to better health

HEALINGHeat is owned by Kate and Ciara, two local business women who started in Belfast nearly four years ago and have now opened a brand new store on Hill Street in Newry.

Due to ill health with Lyme disease, Ciara researched into alternative treatments when the traditional medicine route wasn't enough. This is how Healing Heat became a reality.

"When I was ill, there was nothing like this over here, I saw a massive improvement in my own health using this technology and wanted to be able to bring this to the local community and make it more accessible.

I feel so grateful people love Healing Heat just as much as we do, and enjoy the amazing benefits our therapies offer.

Kate and I have worked tirelessly to educate on how important our therapies are for overall health, both mentally and physically.

We are so excited to have brought this to Newry, our mission is to support you on the path to better health."

Whether it is detox, pain relief, weight loss or simply to de-stress and relax, Healing Heat is the place to be.

S&W Wholesale Forthcoming Expansion....

We promised we would deliver A Whole Lot More and we are delighted to announce our redevelopment project plan. An investment of more than £15 Million in a landmark 20-Acre Site will be home to a new multi-purpose distribution hub, Head Office Space, vehicle management area, recycling area and much more. The new state of the art storage centre will boast 180,000 sq ft hosting all ambient, chilled, fresh and frozen products all under one roof.

To give you the magnitude of the investment our current location in Carnbane which has been home since 2010 already operates at 100,000 sq ft. This redevelopment plan will almost double in capacity allowing our continued vision for growth, improve our efficiencies and investment in both the business and local area.

The conveniently based move to Chancellors Road, just off the main A1 Dual Carriageway out of Newry to Dublin will position us in the best location to service our retail and wholesale customers throughout the island of Ireland with greater ease.

Michael Skelton, MD of S&W Wholesale had this to say, "Over the past number of years we have experienced sustained growth and this investment into the new multi-purpose site is aimed at facilitating this growth further and to provide our employees with a better working environment but as well as providing a more efficient way of working across the entire business."

The site will become more eco-friendly focused with the introduction of solar panels, electric car charging points and methods of reducing waste -reducing S&W's carbon footprint for the future.

Michael continued with, "We are committed to driving our footprint in the local community with plans to build on our 250+ workforce and work alongside local business and organizations in making a real positive change in the local area and beyond."

Aspects of the new facility are well under way with a local architect firm spearheading the cutting-edge design. "We are really excited about the build and to get Phase 1 underway. With all that has happened over the past few years with the pandemic this is a positive story for all involved with S&W, the local area, employees and their communities as well as our retailers and trade partners as we continue to be one of Ireland's leading grocery wholesalers." We will continue to deliver A Whole Lot More." Michael Skelton, MD.

The forthcoming recruitment day on 30th April will be a great opportunity to be part of S&W Wholesale who are excited to be offering various positions highlighted above and giving you the opportunity for "a whole lot more" for your future career.

Recruitment Day. Saturday 30th April.

BID investing in the future of Newry

Newry BID- Business Improvement District represents more than 600 businesses and organisations in Newry city centre.

Newry BID's core objectives are Belong, Invest, Deliver. We want to help businesses to Belong in the city centre.

A key driver is to support a sense of community amongst local businesses. We want to Invest. We help to promote and deliver investment in the city centre through keeping the city cleaner, greener and safer; marketing and lobbying. Finally, we want to Deliver. It is Newry BID's objective to deliver a better city centre experience for our members, for the individuals who work in those organisations, and the people who visit our city to live, work or do business.

This is done through offering training, business support, events, and working in partnership with other key stakeholders.

Newry is a great place to live and work. With organisations such as Newry BID and its many partners available to offer business support, there is no better time to think about coming here.

Many of our businesses have current vacancies and opportunities for career progression, particularly in the retail and hospitality sector. We also boast world class companies in the centre of our city centre including First Derivative and STATSports, who offer global career opportunities.

Newry BID is at the heart of shaping this city. Despite the many challenges we all see and face globally and locally, we are optimistic for the future. We are confident that Newry is on a journey of continuous improvement, with an energetic and engaged business community.

We know it offers career opportunities and lifestyle choices envied by many other places. We know that if you come to live and work here you will feel as passionately about its success as we do.

Scheme to support people

In early 2020, Northern Ireland (NI) experienced its first wave of Coronavirus (COVID-19), leading to unexpected changes to peoples' lives, lifestyles and behaviours.

The NI Executive introduced a range of schemes and initiatives to support local people and businesses due to the negative impacts of the Coronavirus pandemic. One such scheme was the NI High Street Scheme, implemented by DfE, with the aim of stimulating economic recovery by providing businesses with a financial boost.

The Scheme was launched on 27 September 2021 and invited each eligible person aged 18 or over in NI to apply for a Spend Local £100 prepaid card to spend in local businesses over a short period.

The Spend Local prepaid card was to be used to purchase goods and services from any business located throughout NI that accepts card payments.

The cards could be used for multiple transactions, limited to a maximum spend of £100, however could not be used for online purchases, withdrawing money, gambling, legal or financial payments.

£10.5 million spent through High Street Voucher Scheme “not a bad result for an area of our size.” - Cathal Austin

By Daniel Hill
daniel.hill@newrydemocrat.com

CATHAL AUSTIN has expressed his appreciation for the £10.5 million that the Spend Local Voucher Scheme injected into Newry's high street economy claiming that such a result is “not a bad for an area of our size.”

Mr Austin, who is the manager of the Quays Shopping centre, made the comment following the publication of statistics revealing that over £10.5 million was spent in 261,868 transactions throughout the Newry, Mourne and Down District council area during the period that the Voucher Scheme was active

Mr Austin states that while he “doesn't know enough regarding the statistics relating to the spend” generated by the Spend Local Voucher Scheme to provide a “definitive answer on how successful the scheme was in the area”, he does “applaud the scheme for its intentions.”

“Newry Mourne and Down was in and around 7 or 8 percent of the total spend amount that was put into the Spend Local Voucher Scheme. This is probably not a bad result for an area of our size. While I don't know enough regarding the statistics concerning the spend of the Spend Local Voucher Scheme in Newry, Mourne and Down to provide a definitive answer on it, I do applaud the scheme for its intentions.

“If you speak to retailers around Newry, very few of them would tell you that the spend local voucher scheme was a bad thing, a lot of them had good experiences with it. I applaud the Executive for taking the initiative and trying to do something. It was laudable and I think the Spend Local Voucher scheme had a good result across the board whoever you speak to.”

Whilst expressing his gratitude for the help that the Spend Local Voucher scheme provided to high street retail throughout the local area following the Covid 19 lockdown, Mr Austin was keen to reiterate the fact that the Spend Local Scheme was “only a start insofar as it got people back out into physical retail following the Covid lockdown.”

“The spend local voucher scheme was laudable, but it was only a start insofar as it got people back out into physical retail following the Covid-19 lockdown.

“People are still stretched in the local consumer

“HSV scheme has played its part in the renaissance of the high street”

Peter Murray, manager of the Buttercrane shopping centre, also praised the £100.00 Spend Local Voucher Scheme, saying that thanks to the implementation of the scheme there has been a “renaissance of the high street” in Newry.

“Overall the scheme was of great benefit to the high street in November and early December, boosting the spend in retail and hospitality particularly, something that was very badly needed after the most challenging of eighteen months.

“The voucher helped create a buzz and a bit of confidence on high streets and in town and city centres which was most welcome. Customers benefitted from retail led discounts and offers linked to the scheme by individual stores so customers, in these circumstances, availed of the offer and thus tended to add something over and above the £100 given they were getting excellent value for money.

“Undoubtedly, the scheme was expensive to market. Prices are going up and consumer confidence is not great. Whilst the voucher was laudable and I applaud it as it was a good start, there is much more that needs to be done to make sure that the high street is secured into the future. This will require work from the Executive and will require some thought on the behalf of ourselves as well.

Mr Austin cites the ongoing conflict in the Ukraine as a specific example of an issue that could cause problems for the high street economy in a post Covid-19 landscape.

“The situation that we now find ourselves in is still challenging. We have come out of Covid-19 and now we are facing a war in Ukraine and all the pressures that this is putting on the cost of oil and gas and then this feeds into the supply chain as well because you need Oil and Gas to transport goods. We also still have Brexit hanging in the background although the protocol is insulating us from the worst effects of Brexit.

“To be fair to the Executive there was no way they could have foreseen Putin invading Ukraine because American intelligence only picked it up a couple of weeks before he actually invaded. It is just unfortunate that any sort of uplift that was driven by the Spend Local Voucher Scheme has been impacted by the circumstances beyond the control of anyone in Northern Ireland that have created the crisis we now find ourselves in.

“The High Street Voucher Scheme helped out people who were facing rising prices that were going up because of Covid-19 and Brexit. The war in the Ukraine has just added to this. It was helping out families as well. I am not an expert on social policy so I don't know what would be the best way to get money out to families that are feeling the pinch at this moment, but looking at it from a business point of view we need to improve consumer confidence. This is going to be a medium-term goal as it is not something that can be achieved in the short-term.

“Having said that we have been here before. I am old enough to remember the Oil crisis of the 1970's and everything that came out of that. Hopefully the situation in the Ukraine will be resolved in the short-term as opposed to becoming a more long-term problem.”

Mr Austin concluded by making an appeal to the political parties of Northern Ireland to “get the Executive up and running, irrespective of how it is they feel about each other” otherwise in Mr Austins own words. “we are just going to spiral from one financial crisis to another and there won't be anyone there to do anything about it.”

“Before the cost-of-living crisis, we were in lockdown and people had been driven to shopping online so the spend local voucher was aimed at getting people back out into the high street again. It worked in the short-term but like I said there is more that needs to be done.

“There is the High Street Task Force that the Executive has formed to look into reinvigorating the high street and we haven't really seen much action from them. They haven't actually got out onto the ground and spoken to landlords and retailers and all the interested parties around the various towns in Northern Ireland. This group needs to get working and you need a functioning Executive to enable this.

“It is incumbent upon a lot of the political parties irrespective of how it is they feel about each other to get the Executive up and running and working otherwise we are just going to spiral from one financial crisis to another and there won't be anyone there to do anything about it.

“We need our politicians to front up and form the Executive and get down to the work to try and sort the economy out here. It is people on lower incomes that are suffering the most at this minute at time. Differences need to be set aside and the Executive needs to be formed.”

Cathal Austin, Manager of the Quays Shopping Centre Newry
